Structuralism – How Bourgeoisie and Capital is a Bloc and Proletariat is a Complex Differentiation

By Nicos Poulantzas

I. Living Capital

In fact then capital, and capitalists are then claiming their companies are important to the world. This then mainstreams finance into the world. I re-structure this as a bloc of capital and also then re-structure again as a form of capital, and finally classify, three types of capital – manufacturing automobile sector capital, and commercial, say retail capital and then in fact high finance capital which is about say software or such developments.

Already I mean capital is of three types.

II. Living Labour

As distinct from capital, capitalist and their types of capital. Comes labour and labouring worlds. I re-structure this to differentiated and complex de-centered labour processes and so even spare part workers in say some shed with cheap types of putting out system work on small sheets of metal and furnaces as their lived experience.

Part II – Global Multinational Companies and Labouring Complexities

I. Multinational Companies – are they relevant?

And so there exists multinational companies in the world with I re-structure this, the types of retail segments and even Nike shoes or such styles which then live a mundane capitalist lifeless dead labour.

II. Really Living Life Instead

And so in fact free praxis, to live life is to be in Sao Paulo in Brazil and protesting in a fused group in small wage levels and wage-series. I re-structure this to a structural segment, and re-structure it again to a small fraction and small class which is underteremined and so de-totalised totality.

By de-totalised I mean as Perry Anderson argues, a small totality which is underdetermined which means that it is then totalization of their small lived class realism. I mean Anderson says there is in the 18th Brumiare of Louis Bonaparte, mainly this under-class which then is structurally how it is even a different segment which then represents the class as in fact a segment of I also mean segmentation within the class. News should be about this small a segment because that is the true view of totality, a de-totalised totality. I mean life is lived by them, and they are migrations as well, to another strike fused group.
